Once upon a time, in a land far away. There was a wizard that was super lonely and wanted a son. He didn't have a wife, so he made a boy from wood. The boy couldn't talk cause he's from wood. But then the wizard found a spell to make him alive. At first It didn't work, so the wizard gave up and went to sleep. Then at night the boy had woken up. The wizard was eating breakfast and suddently he heard something. He tought it was a thief, so he grapped his shotgun

The next day he went to school. He thought it would be a boring day, but he would be wrong. On the way to school 2 bad foxes wanted to do bad things to him, so they took him to they're house. When they arrived at home they put pinnochio in the basement. Pinnochio was so scared he had begun crying. In the corner of the scary basement, he saw a venomous spider. He didn't think much of it, he let the spider alone.

But not so long after he got bitten by the spider. Pinnochio had begun to see weird things. He couldn't take it so he layed down and fell asleep. When he woke up the 2 angry foxes were standing in front of him. They had no clothes on and wanted to abuse pinnochio, but pinnochio kicked one of the foxes and the fox flew thru the ceiling. The other fox was so scared he ran away. Pinnochio got out and he was now the superhero of the village. And he swung from building to building and lived happily ever after.
